

Our Simulators

Our Simulators are as real as it gets.

Why?

Because we build them from real cars. There is simply no substitute for opening the door and climbing into the fully fitted original interior of a V8 Commodore or Falcon, strapping yourself into the real race seat and slamming the door closed behind you.

Your sitting in a real car, you can still smell that new car interior and your ready to race around any of the tracks that make up the V8 Supercar world circuit.

We have made a few modifications to bring the simulator closer to the reality of the car we started with.

For starters, we replaced the stereo system with a state of the art surround sound system because we want you to feel like you are really there in the middle of the screaming engines, howling transmissions and squealing tyres. We fitted a custom race steering system and custom tweaked the force feedback system to ensure that you can feel every turn, every bump in the track and the heart stopping "float" as you push the car beyond it's track holding ability through each turn.

We did a little work on the windscreen too, we replaced it with a huge LCD wide screen monitor so you have a clear and realistic view of every menacing turn, every opponent and every concrete barrier that looms way too close as you push the limits yet again.

You had better prepare yourself, this is no ordinary ride. We didn't design our simulators to be easy, we designed them to be real. You will be in complete control of the accelerator, brakes, clutch gears and steering. This is a race car, it is going to fight you every step of the way, you are going to push it and it is going to push you back, it is going to make you hang on and it will take you out if push it too far.

This is racing, this is as close as it gets.

Do you have what it takes?
